

PykureCapsule

Introduction

The anal canal and the lower rectum have a lumen lined by three fibrovascular cushions. In each cushion is a venous plexus fed by arterio-venous communications. The internal haemorrhoidal plexus receives its blood supply exclusively from the terminal branches of the superior rectal artery. There are many factors that contribute to develop pathological haemorrhoidal cushions. The alteration may be due to * Familiarity, * Environmental factors e.g. Constipation, straining during defecation, low fiber diet, obesity, sedentary life style. Further, it may be due to deterioration of connective supportive tissue. Symptoms vary with conditions e.g. pregnancy, repeated straining, constipation, diarrhea, changes in diet or working pattern. These situations may undergo periods of remission and relapse. The most common symptom is bleeding after going to the toilet. This is either bright red and usually noticed in wiping or in the toilet bowl.

Most common cause of Anal bleeding in 54% of the cases is due to hemorrhoids as confirmed by Nicholls 1985. Internal hemorrhoids are usually painless, however, in grade 3 & 4 hemorrhoids there is thrombosis which can form within the hemorrhoids (it is not so common) causes intense pain if it occurs. Moreover, intense pain is usually associated in cases of Anal fissure, anorectal abscess etc. Prolapses occur with bowel movement and are associated with an uncomfortable sensation of fullness and incomplete evacuation. Larger hemorrhoids may cause mucus discharge, pain, irritation and itching. The discharge may irritate the skin around the anus, this results in fullness in the anus or fully emptying bowel feeling is not felt by patient.

PykureCapsule is a safe, effective and well documented Herbal remedy which ensures significant results in patients suffering from 2 & 3 degree of Hemorrhoids, Fissure and rectal bleeding, Prolapses of rectum and fistula.

Arthakure

Introduction

A rheumatic disorder is an autoimmune syndrome. It may be said as autoimmune reaction where anti bodies develop against components of joint tissues and aggressively attack the joints.
